Although I did not do this with a partner, I know that the program wouldn't work because I would need to set up port forwarding and my partner's router's IP address for the program to work. My partner would have to run the UDPServer.java file on their machine and I would have to run the UDPClient.java file on mine given the explained parameters.

For example, I have spectrum and given our network infrastructure and privileges as end users (customers), the app only offers so much. For this reason, I am not able to complete this part of the assignment, however, I am willing to demo.